

WEEKLY

INTOUCH

$1.99

Willa goes back to her modeling roots

As the rebellious Kaitlin Cooper on The O.C., Willa Holland has to hide her softer side. So when she was given the opportunity to wear feminine clothes in the Scanty loungewear show on September 9, it was an offer she couldn't refuse. She talks to In Touch about her time on the catwalk and whether it could be a permanent move.

You were a child model, right?

I was 8 or 9 and the only thing I remember was I screwed up a little. I walked right into another model. But I was 8!

How did it feel to be back on the runway?

I was very nervous. I was wearing PJ's so I just tried to imagine walking in my living room.

Would you like to do more modeling?

It was fun. You never know what the future has in store.

BROTHER AND SISTER MEET JUST HOURS BEFORE HIS TRAGIC DEATH

The O.C.'s Willa Holland

SPRING 2007 NEW YORK FASHION WEEK

makeup by

FACE atelier

NICOLE R SON

ANGELINA & BRAD ARE CELEBRATING

Their touching final moments together PLUS: New details about what caused Daniel's death

